

Car Care Tips

1. Have your cooling system serviced at least once per year to protect your engine. That should include inspecting entire system, flushing and replacement of antifreeze/coolant. The procedure should also include a pressure test which could disclose a leaking radiator, heater core or pressure cap.
2. Don't take your battery for granted. If it's 3 or more years old have it and the entire charging system tested. A battery that seemed strong last month may put out only about half of its power when the temperature drops.
